

Our aim is to help every child reach their potential through inspirational education in music and drama

Do you know someone who loves to sing and act?

Established in 2007, Little Voices builds confidence and nurtures talent through inspirational education in music and drama for children aged 4-18. Following a LAMDA syllabus, we work with trained singing and drama tutors in small group sizes which means we can focus on the individual child's development and give specialist Performing Arts tuition. Our lessons are based on the age of your child; their ability and friendship. Our unique framework of lessons means that we can ensure everyone gets a part and that we provide a wonderful, caring environment where your child can make new friends and grow in confidence whilst developing as an individual. We are extremely passionate about helping all our pupils reach their full potential.

With schools mainly focused on the core subjects, music and drama are falling off the curriculum, but we know that the skills acquired through these subjects go way beyond performance. Our pupils learn so much and the skills we teach them at Little Voices are crucial for later life experiences. These include the ability to conquer an interview; conduct presentations; use eye contact; posture; confidence; push the boundaries of their comfort zone and effectively communicate in all situations, both socially and in their future careers.

“ The best thing I ever did was enrol my daughter at Little Voices! Once a little girl who would shy away from talking to people and hold back from putting her hand up in class, now a confident young lady who is bubbly and chatty in all aspects of her school and personal life. So very thankful. ”

MINI VOICES Ages 4-7

Mini Voices introduces children to the performing arts with fun at the core of our lessons.

These lessons are short to maximise concentration and learning.

We also start to nurture your child's talents and develop their communication skills.

LITTLE VOICES Ages 7-12

At this level we teach our pupils a varied theatrical repertoire, working towards group and solo examinations.

During these lessons we introduce characterisation, expression, complex scripts and working together as a cast.

We really nurture their young singing voices with vocal health as a priority and fundamental acting techniques.

VOICES Ages 13-18

Voices is where we start to see the Little Voices training brought to centre stage.

Many of our Voices pupils go on to further study in performing arts subjects or are able to transfer the valuable skills acquired to other career paths and life situations.

As they acquire the higher grades, the marks often provide a valuable contribution to UCAS points for entry to college and university.

Our talented singing and drama tutors are carefully chosen for their passion for the performing arts and their commitment to delivering inspirational education in music and drama

“ Little Voices is a unique and special place. They get to know the individual child because of their small class sizes. No child goes unnoticed and every child gets the opportunity to shine, surrounded by encouragement and support both from the tutors and their peers. For some children, they will go on to use these specific skills in their careers, for others they will use these wider skills in their communication on a daily basis. ”

We are extremely proud to have worked with LAMDA since 2007, helping thousands of pupils achieve success with outstanding results. The LAMDA syllabus is globally recognised and of the highest standard.
